Grand Rapids Beats Merrill.

Last Sunday the Grand Rapids baseball team went to Merrill and played a game, and the locals took the Merrills into camp by a score of 3 to 2. It was expected by many of the baseball fans that Merrill would have an easy thing of it, as our team is composed of home boys who play ball only once a week, and sometimes not that often, while Merrill is supporting a paid team and expected to beat everything in the semi-professional class along the river.

The following written of the game is taken from the Merrill Herald:

Yesterday's game with the Grand Rapids aggregation resulted in a victory for them, the scores being three to two. This is the first game with Grand Rapids, although it will not be the last. Grand Rapids scoring was the result of errors on the part of Merrill and also somewhat by the lack of timely hitting.

The game was intensely interesting and filled with exciting situations and sensational climaxes. The official scores are:

Burned by Kerosene Explosion.

Miss Ethel Hayes had a narrow escape from a serious accident on Tuesday afternoon. She was starting the fire, and had poured some kerosene over kindling that had been placed into the stove, and was just turning away to get a match, when the kerosene exploded, the flame shooting out and enveloping Miss Hayes, burning her face and one hand quite severely, but not seriously.

The stove had been cleaned out before starting the fire, but it seems that there were some live coals in the ashes below the grate, and that the kerosene ran down into the coals, generating enough gas to cause the explosion. People who use kerosene to start fires should be very careful that all of the fire is out of the stove before they pour in any oil.

Fire at the South Side.

The mill of the Central Paper & Paper company caught fire on Saturday evening, one of the ventilators burning off and a part of the roof being destroyed. The fire was extinguished before any great damage was done, the loss being estimated at between four and five hundred dollars. The fire was caused by a hot box in the ventilator.

Had a Hand Blown Off.

Charles Saeger of the town of Grand Rapids had his right hand badly shattered by a charge of dynamite on Sunday that it was found necessary to amputate the member. The injured man was brought to this city as soon as possible after the accident, where the operation was performed.

Port Edwards on Sunday.

It is expected that the Port Edwards baseball team will be here on Sunday to play with the locals. The Port Edwards boys say they will bring up a team that will make our boys go home.

Laundry Building to be Sold.

The building that has been occupied by the Northington Bros. as a laundry will be sold at auction on Saturday at 2 o'clock.

Mrs. Wm. Scott returned to her home in Port Arthur, Canada, on Monday after a visit of several weeks in the city with friends. Mrs. Scott was accompanied by Jeanette Daly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Daly, and Emil Rossier of Plover, who will spend their vacation at her home.

Gus Johnson, who has operated a saloon in the Briere building on First Avenue for several years past, has decided to retire from business when his license expires next month. Joe Reimer, now located on the east side, has leased the building and will move his saloon there.

The city fathers held an afternoon session at the city hall on Tuesday in order to give the applications for saloon license proper consideration. Several of the applicants were called before the board to explain their stand on certain points of the law.

Miss Elizabeth McCamley departed on Sunday for Milwaukee, where she joined Miss Lela Doyle of McFarland and together they departed for Canada, where they will spend several months visiting.

Answer—Half a day.

No More Water for Sprinkling Purposes.

On account of the hot, dry weather we are having, and the shortage of spring water in the supply wells, you are hereby prohibited from the further use of city water for any purpose excepting kitchen and house use. No sprinkling of any kind will be permitted from now on until further notice. We were obliged to take in a little river water on Tuesday and will be obliged to use river water until we get heavy rains and a larger supply of spring water. Every water user is therefore hereby notified and restrained from the further use of city water for any kind of sprinkling. If you find river water in the mains, boil it before using. This water notice is urgent and will be enforced rigidly.

Cannot Collect Saloon Debt.

A bill was recently introduced in the legislature and passed which prohibits saloon keepers from bringing suit and collecting bar accounts in the future.

For years it has been the custom in the lumbering districts of this state to extend credit to persons working in the woods and thereafter collect the amount due either by obtaining an order on the company or by garnishment proceedings in case the delinquent refuse to pay when sufficient money was due him from the company to cancel the debt.

Under the law enacted, this can no longer be done and the saloon keeper has no redress whatever if he extend credit to customers who refuse to pay him.

Undoubtedly the law is intended to have a salutary effect in protecting the wages of the lumberjack as well as others who work by the month and are sometimes subject to garnishment. On the other hand, the state has legalized the sale of liquor on payment of a fixed license by the saloon keeper, and it is unfair to discriminate against him by thus refusing him the same protection that is afforded persons otherwise engaged in business.

Marshfield Postoffice one Shade the Better.

Marshfield News—"It isn't much to crow about but comparing the business done at the Grand Rapids postoffice we are just a trifle better. Grand Rapids has seven rural routes against Marshfield's five. During the months of March, April and May each office kept a correct account of the business done with the following results. The number of pieces of mail handled by Marshfield rural routes during the months above named was 121,030 to Grand Rapids' 121,607; 527 money orders were issued and $211.17 in stamps sold by the Marshfield office to 541 money orders and $282.07 in postage stamps sold by the Grand Rapids office.

The only logical conclusion we can come to after reading the above is that those on the rural routes around Marshfield sent out of town for more of the goods they buy, which swells the receipts from stamps sold and the number of money orders issued. Here around Grand Rapids the farmers trade with the home merchants, finding that by doing so they can get better goods at a less price than by sending to a mail order house.

The Ideal Theater is being run this week under the auspices of the Federated Clubs of this city, and a change of program is being put on tonight to accommodate the large crowds that are attending. The ladies also sell ice cream and popcorn, thus adding to the income that is derived. The indications are that they will do a pretty good week's business, and clean up some money.

Purchased a Freak.

Ben Loftus, a cattle buyer from Greys Lake, Ill., purchased the six legged calf that was raised in Sigel last fall of Anton Boore, paying $50 for the same. Mr. Loftus shipped the freak to Chicago on Tuesday with a carload of stock, where he expects to sell it to some museum. The animal attracted considerable attention at the stock yards and quite a number went down to see it.

The complainants have placed their cases in the hands of Gluckman, Gould & Corrigan, a law firm of Milwaukee. The outcome of the case will be watched with interest if it ever comes to trial.

Tried an Experiment.

Speaking of the Grand Rapids man who claims to have a new potato that measured six inches in circumference, Justice J. B. Carpenter said that when planting his garden this year he tried an experiment. He did not remove the sprouts, some of which were six inches long, from his seed potatoes. Then in planting he dug holes and barely covered the sprouts. He planted May 11, and eight days later the potatoes were up and now they have been in blossom two weeks. It is said that this is the way potatoes are planted in Norway.—Stevens Point Journal.

Early Whistle Stopped.

The half-past five o'clock whistle that has been a regular signal every morning at the F. MacKinnon mill and spoke factory, has been discontinued, and hereafter those people who have been depending on this whistle to get up in the morning, will have to buy an alarm clock.

Trader-Davey.

Miss Sadie Davey of Dodgeville and Fred Trader of Neeshah were married on Wednesday last at the home of the bride's parents in Dodgeville, and have spent several days in the city during the past week visiting with friends and in the near future will return to Neeshah where they will make their home. Eagles At Waupaca

Last Thursday about two hundred people from this city went to Waupaca to attend the convention of the Eagles, and the day was a most pleasant one from start to finish. The local band of thirty-four men accompanied the party and did its share toward making the day a pleasant one. There were six hands in all, and the music during the day was furnished some music during the day.

The morning was spent in meeting the incoming delegations, and the city rapidly filled up until an immense crowd filled the streets. All seemed to be in a happy mood and the atmosphere of good nature prevailed. During the afternoon a ball game was held at the park and many attended this and others made a trip on the lake, and what was going on about the streets, the different delegations and their bands were formed in line and a parade made about the city. Colorful flags and fireworks made the street from one end to the other an arch of fire, and the noise of fireworks and several bands playing, with delegations with tin horns and other implements calculated to produce noise, made it an evening long to be remembered.

Some of the delegates were attired in grotesque costumes that made quite a humorous appearance. The Grand Rapids delegation left for home about ten o'clock, and a more orderly crowd never headed for home after a day's outing. All expressed themselves as highly pleased with the entertainment which they had seen and the manner in which they had been treated by the Eagles.

The next convention will go to Sheboygan. Our lodge here made a strong effort to have the next convention here, but it is doubtful if the visitors could have been entertained in a proper manner owing to our limited hotel accommodations, and it is probably just as well that some other city got the convention.

Now in Their New Building

The Normington Brothers have moved their laundry into their new brick building and got things straightened around so that they were able to commence work the latter part of last week. They now have a very nice place for the purpose intended and will be able to handle a much larger volume of work than was the case in the old building. Frank Normington of Marshfield spent several days in the city last week helping in the work of moving.

Tried an Experiment

Speaking of the Grand Rapids man who claims to have a new potato that measured six inches in circumference, Justice J. B. Carpenter said that when planting his garden this year he tried an experiment which he did not remove the sprouts, some of which were six inches long, from his seed potatoes. Then in planting he dug holes and barely covered the sprouts. He planted May 11, and eight days later the potatoes were in blossom and now they have been in blossom two weeks. It is said that this is the way potatoes are planted in Norway.—Stevens Point Journal.

Early Whistle Stopped

The half-past five o'clock whistle that has been a regular signal every morning at the P. MacKinnon hub and spoke factory, has been discontinued, and hereafter those people who have been depending on this whistle to get up in the morning, will have to lay an alarm clock.

This 5:30 whistle had been blowing regularly every morning that the mill was going to run for the past thirty-one years. It was considered by some an absolute necessity, while there were others who were in the habit of sleeping late in the morning, who disliked very much to hear it. Personally, it never bothered us very much, because we very seldom stay up until that late.

Trader-Davey

Miss Sadie Davey of Dodgeville and Fred Trader of Needah were married on Wednesday last at the home of the bride's parents in Dodgeville, and have spent several days in the city during the past week visiting with friends, and in the near future will return to Needah where they will make their home. Both of the contracting parties are well known in this city, the bride having been a teacher in our public schools for two years, while the groom was employed in some of our larger mercantile establishments about the city, and they have many friends here who will wish them a long life of happiness.

Violet it State Flower

The violet was an easy winner in the state flower contest. The state superintendent's office has just finished the compilation of the vote from all sections of the state, and it was announced on Monday as follows: Violet, 63,596; wild rose, 29,408; trailing arbutus, 26,170; water lily, 21,623; total, 140,593.

W. J. Conway President

At the annual meeting of the Wisconsin County Judges Association held at Milwaukee last week, W. J. Conway of this city was elected president. The meeting closed with a banquet at the Republican House.

Are Doing a Flourishing Business

The F. MacKinnon Mfg. Co. are doing a business in their wagon factory this summer, and last week were obliged to work their men several hours evenings to keep up with orders. Last week they shipped three car loads of wagons to California where there is a big demand for their goods.

Cheap Strawberries

Some strawberries shipped in here from Ripon on Saturday sold for $1.25 a case this afternoon. They were fine large berries, and the price was certainly a low one for the quality of the fruit. The reports from all over are to the effect that the crop will be a large one this year, the weather having been especially favorable for this variety of fruit.

Port Edwards Beats Iola

The Port Edwards ball team went to Iola on Sunday and beat the strong team at that place by a score of 3 to 4 in a hotly contested ten inning game. Chas. Nash, who recently returned from the University, was in the box for Port Edwards. Grand Rapids boys are credited with 9 hits and 1 error and the Iola team with two hits and two errors.

El Hayes Will Move Into his new quarters

El Hayes will move into his new quarters on First Avenue South on Thursday, July 1st, the property recently purchased by him from O. Denis. The store room in the MacKinnon block now occupied by Mr. Hayes was reported to have been leased by a moving picture concern, although it is impossible to verify the rumor at this time.

Why Do We Tolerate Them?

The street carnival has been here and gone again, and about the only question that your ears in the mind of any thinking person, is the question of why they are tolerated at all by the people.

The class of people that are employed about such places are not kind the average person would pick out to associate with, and almost everybody feels better when they are anything but attractive, the mass of them being neither amusing nor instructive. Of course there are some carnivals that actually give something for the money spent with them, but the one that just left this city was not one of this kind.

There really is no excuse for letting one of them made of the city limits and hereafter the city authorities will do well to put the license so high as to keep them out entirely.

A June Wedding

Corrad Evanson of the town of Rudolph was united in marriage on Tuesday, June 22nd to Miss Agathe Fransen of Pigeon Falls, Wis. The wedding took place at the Norwegian Lutheran parsonage. Rev. Orke, of Pigeon Falls officiating. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Olive Fransen, and the groom by Peter Nordland, a life long friend. After the services a wedding dinner was served at the home of the bride's uncle, Hans Auerberg, to a number of relatives and close friends. The bride is an accomplished and most estimable young lady, and has many friends in her home city, while the groom is one of the enterprising and progressive young farmers of the town of Rudolph and has many friends who will join with the Tribune in extending congratulations.

At the Ideal

A large number of people attended the Ideal Theater last night and enjoyed an excellent program under the auspices of the Women's Federation. Tonight there will be a complete change of program, the films selected being "Oliver Twist" and "A Baby's Show." The latter film is reported by request as the management presented it some time ago and it is considered one of the best dramas ever given in the theater. We trust that this week's performance will not be a disappointment, the whole community being the beneficiaries of what they accomplish.

An unusually good program has been selected for Saturday afternoon for the children. "Alice in Wonderland" will be read by Mrs. Goggin and illustrated by slides.

Reception for Rev. Korczyk

The members of St. Peter and Paul Court, Catholic Order of Foresters, held a reception at their hall on Sunday afternoon for Rev. J. M. Korczyk, pastor of the Polish church on the west side. The afternoon was spent very pleasantly a large number of the members of the order being present. A present was presented to Rev. Korczyk as a token of the regard and esteem in which he was held, all of which was very gratifying to the Reverend Father.

Our first speaker who had to read his paper was Mr. W. C. Brown, chairman of the committee, in the hall of the Y. M. C. A. The ratification of July 4 was read by Miss Ruth Laine Wilson, of the Y. M. And it might easily have been that Carroll and all the others should have died in the early days of the revolution. He was a member of the congress. It began to be a very early time, and the revolution was in its infancy.

These preparations were in progress as the State department found the matter over long and eventually came to the conclusion that it was best to have the nation's most honored man about the country, even if the moving was at considerable expense. The president took this view also and so it was decided not to allow the president to be transferred to Chicago. At the opening of the year 1942 John F. Kennedy, then chairman of the Senate Committee on Education and Labor, called the National Archives and Records Administration into Accordingly, President of the National Academy appointed a committee, consisting of John S. Billings, Ira N. Phelps, and Charles F. Chandler to confer with Secretary of the Interior. Eventually this special committee was given an opportunity to make a careful examination of the document, with the assistance of Mr. Phelps, then serving as the chief of the Bureau of Land and Survey of the State Department, and also with the assistance of Mr. Chandler.

The instrument was placed on exhibition in the fading of the ink, particularly in the

If Mr. Root is the man he is thought to be he will learn something from his experience and in the end will be no loser by it. But he will have to move cautiously. Anything like an exhibition of a remnant with a further effort to assume the character of a martyr would only lead to a more complete obliteration of his name from the journals of Congress.

To Mrs. Cleveland, Debtor.

The Commencer.—The democratic party is united to Mrs. Cleveland for the earnest and womanly protest she has made against the fraud that was perpetrated against the party when after her husband's death an attempt was made to use his name and influence against the democratic ticket. A man by the name of Brandenburg sold to the New York Times an article purporting to be written by Mr. Cleveland, urging the success of the republican ticket. Mrs. Cleveland promptly challenged the genuineness of the signature and has recently gone into court to testify against Brandenburg. She would naturally shrink from such notoriety and her perseverance in the prosecution of Brandenburg will be appreciated by the rank and file of the party who have not yet forgotten the grace with which she presided at Washington when she went from boarding school into the White House.

Hobos Must Break Stone.

Through the efforts of Senator E. E. Browne, who led the fight in the state senate and overturned the unanimous report of committee on state affairs, the county boards of the state are obliged to furnish stone pilers and apparatus, and compel the prisoners confined in the county jails of the state to work in breaking up stone for highways.

There are at all times several thousand idle hobo men confined in the county jails of the state who are living in idleness and doing better than many law abiding citizens of the state. Plenty of good hard work will do more to reform criminals than anything else and the professional hobo who has in the past found our county jails a quiet hiding place in the winter, where he is free from care and furnished with a steam heated room and plenty of smoking tobacco, will pass on to other states where a stone pile is not one of the accessories to the jail. We consider this practical and timely legislation.—Waupaca Republican Post.

New Head Game Warden.

Capt. George Rickman of Racine, a Spanish war American veteran, has been appointed by Gov. Davidson to the office of state game warden, to succeed J. W. Stone, who got Stephenson and Davidson money mixed up during the primary election campaign last summer.

SHERRY.

On the 16th of June, the North-west College Institute closed its third year and graduated its third class. The commencement speakers were the Rev. Abraham Bell of Bloomer, Wis., and the Rev. Alexander English, Ethian, South Dakota, who delivered most helpful and inspiring addresses. The graduates gave evidence of good training and careful preparation in the orations delivered. The new school year will open Sept. 22nd. A large increase in attendance is expected. Most of the teachers expect to return again in September. They not only proved to be efficient in the class room and most popular with the students but also won the esteem of the community at large.

The Bible exercises Sunday evening will be musical and largely at the expense of the church.

Everyone enjoyed them.

The Lowly Hen.

It is not often that the plain and unassuming hen is made the subject of poetry or song, but it seems that at last she is coming into her own. The following poem taken from the Chicago Packer are a couple that were used at a meeting of commission men held in Chicago.

The following poem was read as a toast to the hen:

For the hen, the lowly hen,
She lays an egg today, and then
Tomorrow goes about her work
And when her nest of rubbish is
Lays another. Check on check,
Day after day, with endless toil,
She may at last hatch out a brood
Of chicks with yellow legs
To become hens and lay more eggs.
She knows no holidays at all.
Nor Sundays. At the clucking call
Of Mr. Rooster, with a lurch
She lurches down a brood of worms
And goes upon a brood of worms.
She goes to find the early worm,
She gives a worm, a piece of earth,
A bug and makes an egg of it.
That will pass muster with her
Incredibly rich owner.

And does she rest with one egg laid,
And lounge around beneath the shade
Of some tall tree? Not much! Not she!
She scours the shade of fence and tree,
And across shaded lanes and
She keeps the bug war on the run,
And scratches with her old worn feet
Farward and backward, lane and street,
And with her bill she searches and pokes
The soil for worms and yolk.
Reckless of egg, day after day,
In unobtrusive, cheerful way,
And when her laying life is done,
She lurches not to shade of sun,
But with a look that reads dark work
She lays her head upon the block,
And the piece of darkness of
Her mind is laid down, and her
Pen mark in death. Have her
Example for husbands and for men!

The party lasted until cock crow and at the close the following anthem entitled the "National Hen" was sung to the tune of "America" and all the guests joined in:

Dear chicken, unto thee
We dedicate this song,
The praises sing,
Of some tall tree? Not much! Not she!
She scours the shade of fence and tree,
And across shaded lanes and
She keeps the bug war on the run,
And scratches with her old worn feet
Farward and backward, lane and street,
And with her bill she searches and pokes
The soil for worms and yolk.
Reckless of egg, day after day,
In unobtrusive, cheerful way,
And when her laying life is done,
She lurches not to shade of sun,
But with a look that reads dark work
She lays her head upon the block,
And the piece of darkness of
Her mind is laid down, and her
Pen mark in death. Have her
Example for husbands and for men!

Some work has been done along the river bank on the east side, and already it presents a very much improved appearance. So far, about all that has been done is to level the ground and scatter and level off the ground so that the bank presents a graceful slope from the road to the river. There is no question but what when all the work is completed there will be a great improvement in the appearance of things in that locality.

So far, all that has been done is to use a scraper and level off the ground so that the bank presents a smooth slope from the road to the river. There is no question but what all the work is connected there is to a great improvement in the appearance of things in that local.

The Lowly Hen.

It is not often that the plain and unassuming hen is made the subject of poetry or song, but it seems that at last she is coming into her own. The following poems taken from the Chicago Packer are a couple that were used at a meeting of commission men held in Chicago.

The following poem was read as a toast to the hen:

I'm fond of you, the lowly hen,
I'm fond of you, the lowly hen,
She lays an egg today, and then
Tomorrow goes about of rubbish
And where her nest of rubbish is
Lays us another. Cluck! cluck!
Cluck! cluck! with endless pluck;
Happy if in solitude
The sunbeams lighten out a brood
Of fluffy chicks with yellow legs
To become hens and lay more eggs.
To become hens and lay more eggs.
She keeps no holidays at all,
Nor Sundays. At the clarion call
Of Mr. Rooster, with a lusty
She rushes down from off her perch,
And once upon the earthy worm.
She takes a worm, a piece of dirt,
A bug and makes an egg of it.
That will pass muster until morn'
In secret, try to conceal.
And does she rest with one egg laid,
And lounge around beneath the shade
Of some leafy tree? Not much! Not she!
She scorns the shade of fence and tree,
And keeps the bug worm on the run,
And scratches about, lank and stark,
And with her bill digs seeds and mole.
The staff for fowls and voik.
Egg after egg, day after day.
In unobtrusive cheerful way,
And when her laying life is done,
She lounges not in shade or sun,
But sits with her little red neck tucked
She lays her head upon the flock.
And never speaks ill and sends
Some boarding-house feast, shows her love
For mankind and man's food. Brave hen!
Examine for roosters and for men!

The party lasted until cock crowed and at the close the following anthem entitled the "National Hen" strut to the tune of "America" and the guests joined in:

Dear chicken, unto thee
We pledge our fealty.
Thy praises sing we
Or backed with sage inside,
Lo, with what happy pride
We grab thy wags:
Thou yearnest not to ride
No chicks dost thou provide
Nor talk of Art.
No power dost thou write
Thyself content thou art,
Thou art a "clucked" delight
Order, peace, to heart.
For breakfast every day
Thou dost a fresh egg give,
Others may widely roam,
Yet find no morsel not from home,
But, scratching up the loam,
Slaves of the job.
Humble and true art thou,
Noblest for faithful frau
Of food and care.
Thy lord is tough and coarse,
Yet thou seestest no divorce
And with alacrity, perforce,
Slaresht thy corn.
Teece in early Spring
Our pocketbooks we bring,
For thou hast just graddened meen
When they're full of June
Thou makest dust and
In the dust of life
Thou are our hand!

Trampled by Mad Bull.

Marshfield News:—John Gadsby, a prominent farmer of the town of Richfield, came near losing his Tuesday morning while manning Holstein herd. In attempting to drive the animal in the barn it turned Mr. Gadsby knocking him down on its head and then trampling him over its feet. Luckily the infuriated beast was debauched or else Mr. Gadsby would have been killed. A horse was trampled and brained in a horrible manner before help arrived. At last accounts his condition was somewhat improved.

It isn't the young Porto Ricans that are making the trouble. It's the same old bunch.

An English official in India has killed 130 tigers, but don't be sorry for the big cats. They kill several times that number of human victims every year.

Many small boys maintain, by word and deed, that it is warm enough to go swimming. But are small boys judges of anything that means risk and discomfort but sports fun?

Queen Alexandra of England has done an unwise thing for herself in coming to the front to denounce women's suffrage. Altho she has enjoyed the privilege of being left alone, but now she has challenged attention she will probably get it from the suffragettes good and plenty more than she desires.

Count D'Almeida de Castellan wants to go on a big hunt in the Rocky mountains. The little pink-and-white count ought to be careful in this determination, lest the wild animals mistake him for a dainty lioness rather than a near-Sinbad. Besides, the lightning can accommodate only one mighty hunter at this time.

Flora McNight, the heroine of the "Crimson War," is in her thirtieth year. She on one side of the Atlantic and Clara Barton on this have in their old age the profound records which human effort can win, for their long lives have been devoted solely to the alleviation of human suffering, and it is simply impossible to estimate how many thousands have come to bless the fact that these two women lived.

While the life sentence in one case and 25 years in the other cannot be considered excessive punishment for the Boyle kidnappers, it is painful to reflect that these colpeits had murdered the child they might have drawn much milder terms or escaped entirely. People have queer ideas now and then. There are places in the country where it is less dangerous to kill a man than to sell him a drink.

A queer complaint has come from Covey Island, Young and handsome policemen on the Gibson man plan were so hampered in their work by the adulation of appreciative femininity that an official order has gone forth replacing each Adams of the club with an old and ugly veteran, who is also required to be married, so as to be absolutely steelproof against temptations to engage in the alluring game of fascinating the fair sex.

A young Brooklyn bride on her honeymoon invited to the celebration six young men to whom she had previously been engaged. They got even with the bride by coming and celebrating their narrow escape.

Chicago husbands have received a severe jar from the fact that a court there has declared that divorced men are liable for alimony even as long as 50 years after the divorce. At this rate they will find it cheaper to stay married and cut down the seasonal pin money.

A minister of Loup Island says that the present fashion in huge hats are not conducive to holiness. Which seems stating the case very mildly when one recalls the profanity for which they are more or less responsible.

Now the English suffragettes are bombarding the members of parliament with rockets. From oratorical fireworks they have gone to the real thing, and the frightened legislators are asking in subdued whispers: "What next?"

Religion of the arson and butchery brand, now in evidence in Asia Minor, ought to be as extinct as the Ichthyosaurs.

A carp on Long Island weighing 19 pounds, which had been caught by fishermen for the last ten years, was caught the other day by a snail boy who was nearly dragged overboard by the big fish. It will be seen by this that the season's fish stories are not falling off from the high standard set by the justly popular fishing branch of the Ananias club.

Is the Turkish housecleaning all over?

The floorcracker crop will soon be ripe.

Life imprisonment—no wonder Doyle feels sure.

One hundred worst books? Why, there are a million.

Anticigarette agitators are making a good deal of smoke.

Minister Wu T'ing-fang believes in women's suffrage. But not in China.

The first message flashed to Mars should consist of the day's baseball score.

Baltimore man erects a monument to Adam. Watch the suffragettes tear it down!

A Connecticut man has invented a "noiseless typewriter." We shall welcome her.

Kansas City newspaper humorist was wife by his jokes. When are they on, now?

It isn't the young Porto Ricans that are making the trouble. It's the same old bunch.

Dreadnoughts at $10,000,000 apiece are almost too costly to expose to the perils of war scares.

Poland continues to be silenced by Russia. They'll soon have to scud along under her poles.

New York school teachers will not strike, but they have compelled the city to hear their complaints.

Even if communication with Mars were established it would be impossible to negotiate a loan that way.

Now it is claimed that only 10,000 Christians were killed in the recent massacres in Asia Minor. "Only!"

"Mother's Day" is all right, but what's the matter with "Father's Day"? Is he an alien—an exile from home?

The Moslems are almost as crazy as the Donklobers about Vinpiper and twice as malicious and blood-thirsty.

Abdul Hamid has transferred $5,000,000 to the new government. What persuasive voices and taking ways the Young Turks have!

An English official in India has killed 120 tigers, but don't be sorry for the big cats. They kill several times that number of human victims every year.

Many small boys maintain, by word and deed, that it is warm enough to go swimming. But are small boys judges of anything that means risk and discomfort but spells fun?

Queen Alexandra of England has done an unwise thing for herself in coming to the front to denounce woman's suffrage. Altho she has enjoyed the privilege of being let alone, she has been subjected to a lot of abuse and now she has changed her mind and she will probably get it from the suffragettes good and plenty—more than she desires.

Count D'Almeida de Castellan wants to go on a big hunt for the flocky mountain lion. The little pink-and-white count ought to be careful in this determination lest the wild animals mistake him for a dainty bonbon rather than a near-Nimrod. Besides, the lion might accommodate only one mighty hunter at this time.

Florence Nightingale, the heroine of the Crimean war, is in her ninetieth year. She on one side of the Atlantic and Clara Barton on this have in their old age the proudest records which human effort can win, for their long lives have been devoted solely to the alleviation of human suffering, and it is simply impossible to estimate how many thousands have come to bless the fact that those two women lived.

While the life sentence in one case and 25 years in the other cannot be considered excessive punishment for the boyie kidnapers, it is painful to reflect that if these culprits had murdered the child they might have drawn much milder terms or escaped entirely. People have queer ideas now and then. There are places in the country where it is less easy to kill a man than to sell him a drink.

A queer complaint has come from Coney Island. Young and handsome policemen on the Coney man plan have been hampered in their work by the adulation of appreciative femininity that an official order has gone forth replacing each Adonis of the club with an old and ugly veteran, who is also required to be married, and to be absolutely steeped against temptations to engage in the alluring game of fascinating the fair sex.

A young Brooklyn bride on her home-coming led to the celebration six young men to whom she had previously been engaged. They got even with the bride by coming and celebrating their narrow escape.

Chicago husbands have received a severe jar from the fact that divorce there has declined for a divorced man for alimony even as long as 50 years and still it cheaper to stay married and cut down the alimony plan money.

A minister of Long Island says that the present fashion in huge hats are not conducive to holiness. Which seems stating the case very mildly when one recalls the profanity for which they are more or less responsible.

Now the English suffragettes are bombarding the members of parliament with rockets. From oratorical fireworks they have gone to the real thing, and the frightened legislators are asking in subdued whispers: "What next?"

Religion of the arson and butchery brand, now in evidence in Asia Minor, ought to be as extinct as the ichthyosaurs.

A carp on Long Island weighing 19 pounds, which had been sought by fishermen for the last ten years, was caught the other day by a small boy who was nearly dragged overboard by the big fish. It will be seen by the fact that the season's fish stories are not falling off the high standard set by the justly popular fishing branch of the Annals club.

Christianity's Storm Centre.

Some years ago Charles Stelzle, a young musician, desiring to enter the ministry, that he might serve as a mediator between the church and the "un-churched workmen," applied for admission to several theological seminaries of the denomination to which he belonged, the Presbyterian. He was refused admission on the ground that he lacked the necessary educational qualifications for entrance. Nevertheless he began to preach, and being successful as a preacher, he was ordained regardless of his lack of preparation. He remained his membership in the denomination to which he had belonged before he began to preach, and he soon became known to his associates as "the musician's preacher." He also became in reality what he had hoped to be: a mediator between church and organized labor.

When the General Assembly of the Presbyterian church, largely through his efforts, appointed a committee on labor, Charles Stelzle was made chairman. It is safe to say that no other clergyman in America knows the labor problems of the present time better than he, and none is more trusted by the labor leaders.

He is the author of several books, the titles of which suggest their contents: "Workingmen and the Social Problems," "Boys of the Street," "Messages to Workingmen," etc. His most important book, however, is that entitled, "Christianity's Storm Centre." It is the story of the modern city, with its unemployed, its tenement population, its social settlements and saloons, its homeless children, its slums, its tradesmen, showing both their good and evil sides, its empty cities, and its churches that are filled with people from the "upper classes."

Written in a sympathetic vein by a man who understands the problems he discusses, whose criticism of existing evils is free from the bitterness that marks so many of the labor writers, it is both helpful and instructive. It ought to be read and carefully considered by all who are interested in the moral problems of the age, especially as these problems are accentuated in the big industrial centers. Those who wonder why workingmen do not attend church at the present time will find much food for reflection in this volume. They may also find something which will enable them to make the churches more attractive to workingmen, if that is their desire.

Stelzle's "Christianity's Storm Centre" may be found in the Public Library.
